Monthly report

APRIL 2021

THE INSTITUTE

FOR STRATEGY AND DEVELOPMENT RESEARCH

The Mexican Strategic Landscape Report is a monthly publication of the Institute for Strategy and Development Research, a think tank dedicated to the analysis and the dissemination of information in key topics which address Mexico's problems and structural challenges. This document provides insights from the six different regions that make up the country. It helps readers and decision makers comprehend the particularities and complexities of each one concerning four main subjects:

SECURITY

DEVELOPMENT

NATURAL RESOURCES

POWER AND AUTHORITIES

- 1. Mandate of Judge of the Supreme Court extended. The Congress and the Senate approved the mandate extension of Judge Arturo Zaldívar who currently presides the Supreme Court of Justice. By law, the judge had to end his mandate in 2022, however, this reform extends his mandate until 2024, coinciding with the end of the President's government. The measure has caused indignation among various sectors because it represents a violation of the autonomy of the Judicial Power, it is contrary to what's established on the Constitution, and serves as a precedent for other positions such as President or Governors to extend their mandate even though it is currently prohibited. The 2021 elections will be fundamental, because if Morena wins more positions in both chambers of Congress, they will improve their possibilities of making constitutional modifications.
- 2. Migration becomes the main theme on the MEX-USA bilateral agenda. Even though in past governments the agenda between both countries seemed more diversified included security, energy, integration, economic development, and migration issues, currently, both governments have focused their efforts and given priority to migration. During the last month, AMLO proposed taking the "Sowing Life" program to Central America to try to stop migration in a forum whose objective was to promote clean energy. Meanwhile, the managing team for the visit of Vice President Kamala Harris to Mexico in June announced that it would address the migration crisis that affects both countries. Although migration is an important issue on the bilateral agenda, it is not the only urgent problem to be solved and there is concern that other issues such as security, clean energy or economic integration are relegated.
- 3. There will be electoral reform in México. After the cancellation of the candidacies of Félix Salgado Macedonio in Guerrero and Raúl Morón in Michoacán, both belonging to MORENA, the National Electoral Institute (INE) has suffered a series of attacks, threats, and disqualifications by various political actors. The President of México has stated on several occasions that he wishes to carry out a profound electoral reform to guarantee the autonomy of the INE, for which there is the possibility that the Judicial Power absorbs its functions. It is likely that the electoral reform initiative will be presented during the month of May.

➤➤ THINGS TO OBSERVE IN MAY 2021

- Closure of political campaigns and altercations between candidates.
- Increase in social conflicts due to the general drought in the country.
- Possibility of electrical blackouts during the summer season.

SECURITY

Yemeni citizens detained at the border

In the last 4 months, 2 Yemeni citizens were captured by the Border Patrol when they tried to cross into the United States through the border city of Mexicali. Both individuals were included in the FBI's terrorist watch list. Although the number of "persons of interest" who have tried to cross the border through Mexico is low, there is a fear from the US that terrorist organizations start to exploit migration routes used by Mexican traffickers to enter US territory.

DEVELOPMENT

Interurban Train will be built in Baja California

Baja California Government announced the construction of the Tijuana-Tecate Interurban Train which is expected to be completed by the end of December 2022. In a 1st phase the project includes 7 stations and will have the capacity to move up to 30 thousand passengers per day, in the 2nd phase the project will seek to reach the USA. Among the benefits that the train will have are the increase of the connectivity in the region, the reduction of costs, travel time and traffic.

NATURAL RESOURCES

US seizes Mexican shrimp

The fishing sector suffered a hard blow again, on April 30 the embargo on Mexican shrimp by the United States came into force for not complying with the care of sea turtles. In addition to this measure, another embargo continues in the Upper Gulf of California for not protecting the vaquita marina. The measures have strongly affected the fishing sector in the region, which also suffers from the lack of government support, the high cost of marine diesel and the lack of training programs for fishermen.

POWER AND AUTHORITY

Border will remain closed until May 21

The land border restrictions between Mexico and the United States will remain until May 21 for states in Mexico whose Epidemiological Risk Assessment are in yellow or red this means with a high risk of contagion by COVID-19. Non-essential travel restrictions for the southern border with Guatemala and Belize also remain until May 21. Despite the restrictions, the flow of migrants from Central America trying to cross continues to increase, causing a migration crisis in Mexico and the US.

INSIGHT

Educational lag in agricultural fields of Sinaloa

One of the most affected sectors by the pandemic were the children of agricultural laborers from the state of Sinaloa who have not been able to continue their education. Among the reasons stands out the lack of access to the internet or television and the absence of a multicultural program by the Federal Government to offer classes in indigenous languages. The situation has caused a significant educational lag in this sector and there is a risk that continuing virtual classes for the remainder of the year will increase school dropouts. To try to mitigate the situation, the State Government decided to open schools as Community Learning Centers to support students who have had difficulties with virtual classes.

In the last year, 32 Customs Chiefs have been dismissed, of which 12 are being investigated for possible acts of corruption and links to crime. DEVELOPMENT

Teachers will not return to classes in Michoacán

The Union of Teachers (CNTE) of Michoacán considers that the basic conditions necessary to retake face-to-face classes do not exist yet. Among the reasons stands out the lack of economic resources of the schools to periodically sanitize the spaces, the vandalism and looting of the buildings and to have all 90,000 education workers vaccinated. Therefore, it is unlikely that face-to-face classes will be back this school year.

Data from the Drought Monitor in Mexico reveal that in Querétaro 15 municipalities present severe drought and 2 present extreme droughts. In Jalisco, 68% of the territory has severe drought, being one of the most serious in the last 10 years. Although both governments have recently adopted measures to protect water, public policies with a long-term vision are still required to guarantee the supply of water for future generations and designate funds to build new sources of water supply.

POWER AND AUTHORITY

Michoacán candidate is wanted by the DEA

Rogelio Jaramillo Portillo MORENA candidate for Mayor of Huetamo in Michoacán is wanted by the DEA for conspiracy to distribute narcotics in the United States. INSIGHT

Violence and exodus of Aguililla residents in Michoacán

The dispute between organized crime groups for the control of the municipality of Aguililla in Michoacán has caused a social and humanitarian crisis. During the last month there have been several reports of clashes, murders, road closures that have devastated the municipality. Basic products such as food, gasoline and medicines have become scarce. Despite the arrival of the National Guard, Police and Army, the violence in the area continues, which has caused an exodus of inhabitants who seek to migrate to another State or reach the United States. If the government does not intervene directly the governance problem could spread and worsen.

Children in Guerrero victims of crime and authorities

During the last month 2 reports shocked Mexico and the World. Children between 6 and 11 years old joining as community police in Montaña Baja region and girls between 10 and 15 years old victims of sexual violence showing posters with their story in Guerrero. Both cases illustrate the adverse conditions in which children develop, where violence, impunity and marginalization are the common denominator. Although the problems are not new in the region, the cases highlighted the abandonment of the State in these communities.

DEVELOPMENT

Home Office promoted in CDMX

Although the Federal Labor Law Reform came into force since January 2021 in Mexico, the change in work culture has been very slow. In Mexico City, which are just beginning to resume activities in offices, the government and private initiative agreed to promote Home Office as a permanent form of work for some activities after the pandemic. The measure seeks to reduce traffic and polluting emissions from cars and public transport.

Even though since 2018 in 40 municipalities a Gender Alert was decreed, attacks against women continue to occur. The situation reflects the lack of commitment on the part of the Government to eradicate gender violence and the absence of public policies to prevent and address this phenomenon.

DEVELOPMENT

UNHCR will build a new shelter for people seeking asylum in Mexico in the city of San Cristóbal de las Casas in Chiapas. The announcement follows the increase in asylum applications in the country in recent years and the arrival of thousands of migrants from Central and South America who have saturated the Mexican border. The states that concentrate the highest number of reports are Oaxaca, Chihuahua and Chiapas and the subject that exposes them to the greatest risk is the defense of the land and the environment. FOR STRATEGY AND DEVELOPMENT RESEARCH

SECURITY

Mayor of Cancun is investigated for money laundering

The mayor of Cancun Mara Hermelinda Lezama Espinosa is investigated for operations with resources of illicit origin. The mayor is accused of having ceded protected area land to a private company in exchange for a house. In recent years, this tourist destination has presented various controversies in environmental matters due to collusion between authorities and businessmen that have made changes in land use without considering the impact and ecological damage they cause in the construction's area of influence.

DEVELOPMENT

Green energies decline in Yucatán

The pandemic and bureaucratic interconnection procedures by the State Energy Company (CFE) have stalled the sale of solar panels in the state of Yucatán.
